Hello, my name is Timothy Pruitt and I am a XM radio subscriber and professional driver. I use the weather and traffic portions of my service extensively to assist me in making important decisions about which roads to take on my trips across the United States. Without this service it would be difficult if not impossible to get this information on the broadcast bands. If I leave Los Angeles enroute to Washington, D.C., my path might be across Ohio, or perhaps across Tennessee. If there is nine inches of snow falling in Cincinnati, I should change my path near Oklahoma City, Oklahoma. Would a radio station in Oklahoma City be capable of providing me with this information? No. I ask you in the name of safety to reject the NAB's petition (petition 04-160) and allow XM radio to continue providing it's customers with their PAID service.
